Norway School Savings Bank in Operation

This neat piece of bank furniture was donated to the cause by Mrs. Victorine Blanchard of Norway, who has been greatly interested in the project since its establishment.

"The success of operation is largely due to the work of Miss Mildred Curtis, daughter of Treasurer and Mrs. Curtis, who has worked hard to make the plan prosper from the beginning. In the Norway village, four grades of seven are 100 per cent., also the two rural schools, and their total deposits since September, 1926, exceed $1,000."—From Interest Items.

Both teams were slow getting underway, with the Auburn hoopmen first to open the pill box. Edward Little started the attack and by good team work tolled off baskets in regular order, in spite of repeated fouls that were caused by Norway on free tosses.

At times, Norway's defense was strong and had the city boys guessing, on the whole the Blues proved a little too fast. Score at end of first half was 24-5. Summary:

URGES PAYING BILLS

"We hear much about New Year resolutions but why wait until the new year? How about resolving today to pay up all debts especially all current bills? Credit is like the blood circulating in your veins. Anything which retards the flow of credit harms the business body. Hence, when you owe money all of the city suffers thereby. Debts cause death, both to men and communities. If you really are anxious to improve your credit, pay up your current bills immediately so that others can pay you. If enough others would join this movement, St. Petersburg would become the most prosperous business center in America."—Roger W. Babson.

We can apply this to Norway or any other town or city in Maine. The question is, however, where does the trouble lie? We cannot pay some man because several other men have not yet paid us. Those men say they cannot pay us until another man pays them and so on. Where does it start, if each one of us at least tries to do his best in this line that will help towards the cause.

FAMOUS PICTURE HAS ARRIVED

The long delayed and much looked for picture of a New England Grocery Store has arrived. Will Thibodeau said he's send it and he did. It came all framed, with express prepaid. It occupies a conspicuous place on the Weary Club wall. It is true to life, except that they lay on the floor wrong end to the stove. This is out of the usual, yet it sometimes happens that a dog will lay that way.

"Complication of Portland & Seaboard" is engraved on the gold band. It's moved in and in keeping with the way that film does business. However, they are known the world over as dealers in the best brands of tea and coffee.

Pastor Resigns

Rev. Olin B. Tracy Tenders His Resignation After Three and a Half Years in Norway, To Locate in Skowhegan

Rev. Olin B. Tracy, for three and one-half years pastor of the First and Second Congregational Churches in Norway, has resigned, to accept a call to the Federated Churches at Skowhegan.

The letter of resignation was read to the congregation, after the sermon, Sunday morning, last, Eugene S. Sweet, one of the church deacons. The pastor wishes to sever his connections here the last of January.

Mr. Sweet also read a letter received that morning from Howard D. Smith, who is spending the winter in Portland. The communication spoke in highest terms of the pastor's splendid work in the community, especially among the young people. Mr. Smith said, "Letting Mr. Tracy go would be a public calamity."

No action was taken Sunday, but the matter will come before the parish at the annual meeting this week.

The Skowhegan parish is a strong organization of Congregationalists and Baptists, established some years ago, when Rev. Olin B. Tracy, D. D., was a prominent factor in bringing about a federation. The field is large, with many financial and other improvements given that are impossible for a small church to do. Mr. and Mrs. Tracy will carry to the new field the zest and conscientious efforts in Christian experience that have made them a power in the community, regardless of creed or church affiliations.

This call is one in several the pastor has received from various churches of importance since leaving here. Members of the church consider themselves fortunate to have retained Mr. and Mrs. Tracy these years through the pressure of attractive inducements.

Mr. Tracy, who is stopping at Dr. A. W. Easton's.

The annual parish meeting was held Tuesday evening, with good attendance. A fine supper was served preceding the business meeting. Reports of the collectors and treasurer were read and accepted, which showed the church was in good financial standing for the year, $7,691.29 having been received for the current expenses, with a balance on hand for the coming year. Officers and committees:

Modest—Dr. A. W. Easton.
Clerk—Dr. H. P. Jones.
Treas.—Ernest M. Millard.
Collector—A. L. Pike.
Parish Com.—H. P. Jones, E. S. Cummings, J. P. Swan, A. W. Easton, A. J. Stearns, J. N. Tabbe.

Resolution Com.—F. S. Brown, F. E. Smith, S. O. Jellison.
Music Com.—Mrs. H. L. Home, Mrs. O. J. Welch.
Education of By-Laws Com.—E. N. Sweet, A. L. Pike, A. J. Stearns.

Various matters of business were taken up. It was voted to accept the resignation of the pastor, Olin B. Tracy, to take effect the first of February, voted unanimously to Federate with the Universalist Church, providing they so desire by at least a 90 per cent. vote. The marks were made by Mr. Tracy regarding the church work.

A reception will be given Rev. and Mrs. Tracy, Friday, Jan. 14, at 7:30 o'clock. The annual canvass will be Jan. 23. Instead of the usual canvass there will be a special service during the morning service at which time the pledge cards will be returned to the chest during the service.

THE CHRISTIAN'S USE OF HIS BIBLE

LESSON TEXT—Deut. 6:4-9; II Tim. 3:14-17.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Best Book in the World.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Studying our Marching Orders.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Read and Study the Bible.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How to Get Help From the Bible.

1. God's instructions to Israel as to the use of the Scriptures (Deut. 6:4-9).

1. The central truths to be taught (vv. 4, 5).

(1) The unity of God (v. 4).
"The Lord our God is one Lord."

This was a testimony against the polytheism existing among the Gentiles of that day.

(2) Man's supreme obligation (v. 5).
"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, soul and might."

God should be loved with all the heart, soul and might because He is the alone and supreme God, and being the first and great commandment, we know what is man's supreme duty.

2. How these truths are to be kept alive (vv. 6-9).

"These words which I command thee this day shall be in thine heart." In order that God's Word might be in the heart they were enjoined.

(1) To teach them diligently unto thy children (v. 7).
The most important part of a child's education is that given in the home in the Word of God.

(2) "Shalt call them on them when thou sittest in thine house" (v. 7).
This is the right kind of home life.

(3) Shall talk of them when walking with our children and friends (v. 7).
What more interesting, important and uplifting topic upon which to converse with our friends and family?

(4) Shall talk of them when retiring for the night (v. 7).
The last thing upon which the mind should rest before going to sleep should be God and His truth.

(5) Talk of them when rising in the morning (v. 7).
"How fitting that God should speak to us through His Word the first thing when we awake."

(6) "Bind them upon thine hand for a sign" (v. 8).
This was literally done by the Jews as portions of the Scriptures were worn upon their wrists.

(7) "They shall be as frontlets between thine eyes" (v. 8).
This also was literally done by the Jews even to wearing portions of the Scriptures in little boxes between eyes.

(8) "Thou shalt write them on the posts of thy house and on thy gates" (v. 9). They were to be constantly before their eyes.

II. Paul's instruction to Timothy as to the Scriptures (II Tim. 3:14-17).
In this chapter Paul makes clear to Timothy that portions of the Bible would come. False teachers would arise within the church and lead astray sentimental and unsuspecting people as neurotic women. People professing godliness would deny its power by godless living. So awful will this condition be that those who live godly lives shall suffer persecution. Paul's own life of suffering was an example of what fidelity and testimony would bring. In the last days he predicts that this attitude on the part of these false teachers would be intensified, for "evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse."

In the face of such trying circumstances Paul exhorts Timothy—

1. To remain steadfast, to abide in the eternal truths which had been taught to him (v. 14).
He assures him that though trying times would come and violent storms of opposition would beat heavily upon him, Timothy would find the Word of God an abiding, unshaken foundation. The Holy Scriptures will abide even when heaven and earth have passed away, therefore the necessary thing is to abide in them.

2. The knowledge furnished by the Word of God was sufficient for the perplexing and trying times through which he was to pass (v. 15). The Bible furnishes wisdom which can be found in no other place. This wisdom, as all true wisdom leads straight to Jesus Christ, who gives salvation.

3. The Scriptures are inspired of God (v. 16).
Inspiration here means "God breathed." Because of this fact they should be held with confidence.

Abiding in the Scriptures will perfectly equip the minister for his work (v. 17).

How Jesus Saw Men

Jesus divided men into two classes and no more; either on the narrow or on the broad way; either a good tree or a bad tree; either a wise or a foolish builder; in a word, either for Christ or against Him.—Plummer.

Service

The quality of the service is the measure of the result. It is not length of service, but intensity, sincerity, enthusiasm that tells.—R. J. Campbell.

SOUTH HARRISON

Melvin T. Morrow Enjoyed Here—Saturday—School Plans Baked Bean Supper—Martin Merrow Injured Foot.

Warren Plagg has been sick the past week and is unable to be out yet.

Melvin T. Morrow took his grandfather, Martin T. Morrow, to Harrison Village, last Saturday, where they attended the horse track. Mr. Morrow is very well for a man of his age and enjoys the races and a good horse as in years past when he came out first in many a good race.

The school plans to have a baked bean supper at the church, Friday evening, Jan. 14th, weather permitting.

The farmers are very busy getting their ice.

Mrs. Will Lewis and little daughter, Betty, spent the day, last Friday, in Bridgton and Sandy Creek.

Martin Merrow cut his foot badly one day last week, while getting out his wood. He went to the doctor's where he took two stitches and dressed it for him. It is getting along very good.

Will Lewis is saving ice for Will Seavey and finishing for others this week.

I will correct the statement of last week: Embert Buck has been very sick and was unable to go to school and is now too ill to go this week.

Mrs. G. A. Dorn, agent, South Paris, has returned home after two weeks' visit with her parents.

Mrs. Esther Stevens visited at the Morrow home, Sunday, also Mr. and Mrs. Mel Jordan and Harry Winslow.

Mrs. J. H. Lewis and little daughter, Betty, spent the day, last Friday, in Bridgton and Sandy Creek.

Keep Fit!

Good Health Requires Good Elimination

To be well, you must keep the blood free from impurities. If the kidneys are not functioning properly, a toxic condition is created. One is apt to feel dull, languid, tired and aching.

A nagging backache is sometimes a symptom, with drowsy headaches and dizzy spells. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. If you have reason to suspect improper kidney functioning, try Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Ask your neighbor!

GREAT NORTHERN CALENDAR

It is made of the beautiful half tone pictures used on the covers of the Northern for the past twelve months. It is nicely printed and of convenient size. The pictures and months are as follows:

View from Kinco Boarding House—March.
Sluicing Through the Dam—April.
Poling Up Steep—May.

May the spirit of this holy festival abide in your hearts and bring peace and happiness and divine content, and may the New Year contain the realization of your dearest dreams and a kindly answer to your every prayer.

It is one of the many nice samples of fine printing that comes from the Augusta Press over which Roy Flynn has control.

The Old Pottle Tomb

By Frederick Marshall Davis

"Come, wake up here, you have slept long enough," were the words spoken one day recently by George Pike, who had just sealed the stone wall and stuffed away the bones and almost stood at the portals of the Pottle Tomb which is, perhaps, two miles from Norway, Maine, and at the same time beating heavily against the inner door, using his foot as a lever and with the great strength he possessed, the door was soon opened and a ray of light shot in that brought the frames of those who had prepared for themselves a last resting place, nearly to our view.

I had already worked my way and stood inside with others to gaze on this unusual sight that lay before our eyes. In order to get the tomb it was plain to me that the passing years were not wholly to blame for the conditions there as we find them today.

The amount of bones indicated to me that no less than one hundred and fifty human bones comprised the lot and four human skulls were plainly visible.

I stood and gazed with others at the perfect form or frame of a man of large stature that lay where he was left a good many years ago.

Parts of the case or casket lay scattered about the room and the four skulls and large collection of human bones were lying in the tomb. The tomb itself is of weird stories or tales that we have heard or read that seem almost unbelievable.

One of the skulls seems to have gotten separated from the others and was lying in the long stranger, who, by some thought, less person, the casket had been opened and torn apart sufficient to lay bare or expose the human frame that lay clearly to our view.

Bits of the clothing were still prominent and I noticed that the man when living was no less than six feet tall and of large proportions. The tomb itself is made of stone and is a simple affair. The bones tell in their own way that they have been handled and shifted about by human hands, the perfect frame being left where it was laid in the bottom of the outer case or box, the casket having been partly decayed and lifted apart and resting in different parts of the room was a scene that was not to be forgotten.

The tomb just mentioned was built and stands on a small plot of land owned by the Pottle heirs and joins the farm of George Pike, the home place where he now lives. Different from the others of this kind, it stands secluded; it stands in a lonely spot, heavily wooded; no other grave or church-yard being near to add to the gloom. The tomb, although still in good shape, is a simple affair. It is made of stone and is a simple affair. The bones tell in their own way that they have been handled and shifted about by human hands, the perfect frame being left where it was laid in the bottom of the outer case or box, the casket having been partly decayed and lifted apart and resting in different parts of the room was a scene that was not to be forgotten.

It is pertinent to ask "Why this English and French naval and military activity before Germany had made a move?" If Germany were the aggressor, if it had desired the conquest of this nation? The answer seems plain. Different from the others of this kind, it stands secluded; it stands in a lonely spot, heavily wooded; no other grave or church-yard being near to add to the gloom. The tomb, although still in good shape, is a simple affair. It is made of stone and is a simple affair. The Kaiser was a vain man; but he was beloved by his people. Of this there is no doubt. And when a deposed and defeated king or other ruler can retain even the vestige of loyalty that is the Kaiser's today it is evidence that he was loved and beloved when in power.

The loss of the Lusitania was a sad event in English ship, carrying contraband of war, and as such was subject to attack. But if one will recall the advertisements published in the principal newspapers of the United States, warning people not to embark on this ship, that it was liable to be destroyed, he will at least acknowledge that Germany did what it could to avoid the loss of American lives. The Lusitania was a standard household name for the United States to take up arms. Elbert Hubbard and his wife, both of whom perished in this disaster, called at this writer's home in New York five days prior to sailing. They were urged not to sail; but the warning was not heeded.

The United States entered the war for two reasons: Our money-lenders, munition makers and great corporations had sent money and merchandise to the warring countries in vast sums and staid amounts. If Germany should be allowed to win, the return of this money and payment for this merchandise would be long deferred, probably never paid. Hence the demand for our entrance into the conflict. President Wilson dreamed of impossible things, hence he was easily persuaded.

The whole affair was a calamity; a wicked thing. The full truth may not be published for fifty years. Meanwhile there is no gain in blinding ourselves to the facts as now attainable.

In the line of definitions, there's nothing much better than this, "A pessimist is a fellow who has had too many transactions with an optimist."

The whole affair was a calamity; a wicked thing. The full truth may not be published for fifty years. Meanwhile there is no gain in blinding ourselves to the facts as now attainable.

In the line of definitions, there's nothing much better than this, "A pessimist is a fellow who has had too many transactions with an optimist."

The United States entered the war for two reasons: Our money-lenders, munition makers and great corporations had sent money and merchandise to the warring countries in vast sums and staid amounts. If Germany should be allowed to win, the return of this money and payment for this merchandise would be long deferred, probably never paid. Hence the demand for our entrance into the conflict. President Wilson dreamed of impossible things, hence he was easily persuaded.

Accepted and Real Truth

The World War from a Different Viewpoint

—J. Kazbek—

The views so ably expressed by C. F. Whitman, is his writings about the World War; what led up to it, and the reason why the United States took an active part in it, are interesting because they undoubtedly coincide with the established convictions of a considerable number of persons.

In order to get a correct view of anything as stupendous as this it is necessary to stand at a considerable distance from it. And, furthermore, it is essential that one divest himself from everything that will interfere with his vision and understanding.

It is an undoubted fact that this devastating and wicked conflict had its conception in commercial greed. Germany was sitting pretty, to speak in the vernacular. It was in a prosperous condition, had no cause to desire military conflict, did not desire war. Its factories were busy, its commerce with the world was satisfactory.

It was increasing in a way that was marvelous. In every store in America were goods bearing the imprint "Made in Germany."

In England, at one time supreme in its ability to produce and market its wares, became alarmed at the inroads made by German goods. Time, the referee of all things human, was marking the count; something had to be done—War was that something.

France, sore over its defeat by Germany, and the indemnity that it was forced to pay, and desiring recovery of the territory it had lost, was ready and eager to pounce upon Germany—if it could do so with safety.

This writer has it from what seems to be competent and unbiased authority that the British navy was ordered to sail under steam, ready for instant action, weeks before war began. It is also a well known fact that the French troops were mobilized at the same identical time, before war was declared, monopolizing the lines of transit and the hotels of Paris, as is vouched for by American physicians and surgeons who were in Paris at that time for the purpose of attendance at a medical congress.

It is pertinent to ask "Why this English and French naval and military activity before Germany had made a move?" If Germany were the aggressor, if it had desired the conquest of this nation? The answer seems plain. Different from the others of this kind, it stands secluded; it stands in a lonely spot, heavily wooded; no other grave or church-yard being near to add to the gloom. The tomb, although still in good shape, is a simple affair. It is made of stone and is a simple affair. The bones tell in their own way that they have been handled and shifted about by human hands, the perfect frame being left where it was laid in the bottom of the outer case or box, the casket having been partly decayed and lifted apart and resting in different parts of the room was a scene that was not to be forgotten.

The Kaiser was a vain man; but he was beloved by his people. Of this there is no doubt. And when a deposed and defeated king or other ruler can retain even the vestige of loyalty that is the Kaiser's today it is evidence that he was loved and beloved when in power.
